EXPLANATION

My website is about buying online movie tickets.

I have used html, php, css and javascript.

If you are not logged in, but navigate to my website as a Guest, you can:

- Open in the header only pages Home, All Movies, About Us and Contacts.
- For movies you can view their details, check available seats and even select what seats you want, but you can't pay for them. You need to login first.

- Also, you can't send feedback and of course can't view your tickets.

There are 2 user levels: User (that buys tickets) and Admin (that manages movies):

Users can:

- Register, Login as user, Change username, Change password and Logout
- Navigate to all pages of header, even Feedback (so they can send a feedback) and Your Tickets (so they can view the tickets that they have bought)
- Make payment for movies after they have selected the seats.

Admin can:

- Login as admin and Sign out
- View all admins
- View all movies, delete, edit and even add another movie
- View all customers (all users buying a ticket for a movie)
- View all user feedbacks and even delete them if they want to
- View all users (that are logged in) and even delete them if they want to
- View all tickets bought from all customers.
